ADDITIONAL FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE NORTH BRITON.

Departure of the Neapolitan Exiles for New-York.

M. BERLY GOES TO NICARAGUA.

Items of Interest and Importance.

The steamship North Briton, from Liverpool, Feb. 23, arrived at Portland at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. She reports having been detained by head winds.

Passed the Canada, from Boston, for Halifax and Liverpool, on Thursday, and the City of Manchester, from New-York, for Liverpool, a few days ago.

The Mail Packet's mails were forwarded by the earliest train out of Boston and reached this City at an early hour this morning. A summary of her news will be found below.

GREAT BRITAIN.

In the House of Lords on the 21st, Lord Derby appealed to Lord Grey to postpone his pending motion in regard to the Ionian Islands. He said Mr. Gladstone was on road for England, and he would arrive in the morning, was postponed for a fortnight, that he not which the Ionian Parliament might pass, should be ratified until the House had an opportunity of discussing any motion, that might be presented.

Lord Grey assented, and the subject was postponed.

In the House of Commons Mr. Maguire gave notice that he should shortly call attention to the recent arrests in Ireland.

Mr. Waddington, Secretary of the Home Department, introduced a bill adjusting the vexed question of Church rates, by making payments voluntary, instead of compulsory. The bill was favorably received, and read a first time.

The correspondence in the Charles et Georges affair was published.

The Great Eastern left Southampton 11th February, for the steamer Persia, for Nicaragua in order to take possession of the contractor of the Canal in the name of two Presidents, Mazzuna and Mora, who are to meet for the purpose on the 27th of March at Rivas. Mr. Berly is accompanied by a Staff of thirty-three persons, including his Secretary, Gen. M. Lavassuse, formerly French Minister to Mexico, sundry other officials, and a strong corps of Engineers.

The London Times, in noticing the departure, says it will probably cause some surprise in New-York, and is not likely to be looked upon with indifference at Washington. It thinks the English capitalists will be very chary of investing in the enterprise.

Berlin journals speak of a projected marriage between the Prince of Wales and the Princess Alexandrine, daughter of Prince Albert, of Prussia.

FRANCE.

The tone of the Paris correspondence continues warlike. The Paris News correspondent says on the 20th Prince Napoleon received an immense deputation of Italian residents. The Prince made a speech on Italian affairs, and, though using cautious phraseology, the deputation saw in it a confirmation of their most ardent wishes. The same writer says the tactics of the Government are to blow alternately hot and cold on the question of peace or war.

There is, however, not a moment's relaxation in the preparations for war.

The French Minister of War had contracted for ten millions of rations of dried vegetables.

A second division of troops was under orders to march from Algiers to France.

It was reported that General Lamoricière had offered his services to the Emperor in case of hostilities.

All the active battalions at Paris are to be increased, making each infantry regiment 1,500 strong.

Prince Napoleon, it is reported, is incessantly instigating the Emperor to war.

The purchase of horses was going on actively. The stables and large temporary sheds at Vincennes are all occupied.

Gun-boats, on a new plan, are said to be ordered to be constructed.

A large military forage magazine at Vincennes had been burned, entailing a loss of 80,000 francs.

According to the Paris correspondent of the Times the great instigator of war is Prince Napoleon, and his influence with the Emperor is at present extraordinary. The cool reception given by the Senate to the proposal for the increase of the Prince's income was taken as a rebuke to him for indulging in such eager language in ministers, etc.

The Paris correspondent of the Herald again reports that warlike preparations still continue.

The consideration in favor of peace which was being urged by the Chamber of Commerce has, it is said, been regularly baked by a threatening paragraph in the Press.

A treaty between France and Russia was again spoken of.

It is stated that the preliminary meeting of the Congresses was held at the Foreign Office on the 18th, and that Lord Cowley started immediately after.

The report of Count Walewski's resignation continued to gain ground.

Another pamphlet, by M. de la Gueronnière, had appeared. The question it treats of is the revision of treaties.

SPAIN.

The Spanish Chamber of Deputies had granted extraordinary credits for strengthening the fortifications of Ceuta, Ferrol and other places.

The Italian exiles left Cadiz on the 19th on board an American frigate, (1 ship,) name not mentioned.

One hundred Deputies in the Cortes had declared in favor of free trade in corn and cotton.

The English Consul at Tangiers was negotiating a treaty of peace between Spain and Morocco.

PORTUGAL.

A controversy with Rome was under discussion in recent sittings of the Chambers of Deputies.

ITALY.

The Duchess of Parma has signed a treaty with Austria, authorizing the latter Power to occupy all the forts in her dominions with troops in case of hostilities.

Trade in Milan was in complete stagnation.

Large numbers of deserters from the Austrian army had crossed the Piedmontese frontiers.

It is asserted that official dispatches from Cardinal Antonelli to the Cabinet of Vienna, declare that no exception can be accorded to any representations from foreign Governments, at all referring to the domestic Government of the States of the Church.

The Sardinian Senate had adopted a bill for a loan of fifty millions of francs, by a vote of 59 to 7.

It was reported that the Pope intended to publish a manifesto refuting certain statements in regard to Rome, contained in the late pamphlet entitled "Napoleon III. and Italy."

An extraordinary rumor was circulating in Turin. It was said that King Victor Emanuel had been privately married, and wished to be separated from his wife.

It is declared that the journey to Rome of the Marquis Azeglio was for the purpose of obtaining the divorce, and that the Sardinian Minister is concluding negotiations with the Apostolic Court.

Twin letters say the chances in favor of peace were decidedly on the increase.

AUSTRIA.

Austria is strongly preparing for the defence of her Italian possessions. The garrison at Vienna was fully prepared to march at short notice.

There was great activity in the arsenal at Venice, where hospitals and army bakeries were established. Magazines have been placed at the mouth of the river Po, and the garrison of Ferrara strengthened.

PRUSSIA.

The Prussian Government had issued a circular alluding to the joint efforts of England and Prussia to preserve peace, and expressing the conviction that Austria will join in the endeavor for an amicable solution of the difficulties; but declaring that while reserving her action as a European Power, she will nevertheless fulfill her duties as a member of the German Confederacy.

RUSSIA.

It was reported that Russia had declared her determination to resist any attempt to prevent the union of the Principalities by force.

INDIA.

The Bombay mail of Jan. 23 had reached England. The details of the news state that Lord Canning had given a greater extension of the amnesty, and interdicted any executions without his approval.

Public notice had been given that Oude and Rohilcund are again open to European families.

Lord Canning had applied for authority to pursue the rebels in Nepaul. He was to return to England in February.

An engagement between the Rohillas and a British force at Rizooie was disastrous to the latter. Several officers and a number of men were killed.

Mr. Leitz has sued Abel Shank in the United States Court at Cincinnati for infringement of his patent for the construction of steam fire-engines. He claims $20,000 damages.

INTERESTING FROM WASHINGTON.

Curious Chapter of Secret History—Jefferson Fillibustering After Cuba.

Adjournment of the Supreme Court—Backwardness of Business—The Post-Office Department.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, March 11.

A highly-interesting letter from Commodore CHARLES STEWART was to-day handed to President BUCHANAN, disclosing an item of secret history never before divulged. President JEFFERSON's gun-boat bill, which was the subject of much ridicule, was extremely built for the protection of our sea coast. One hundred and eighty of these boats were sent southward. Commodore STEWART now makes known the fact that these boats were built for the special purpose of taking possession of Cuba, but before the plans of Mr. JEFFERSON were perfected our relations with England became threatening, and the project was postponed, and never afterwards revived. It is believed that this precedent set by President JEFFERSON in fillibustering will have some influence in directing the future policy of Mr. BUCHANAN, should Mr. PARSON fail in his efforts to make a purchase of Cuba.

The Supreme Court will adjourn on Saturday, having cleared less than one-third of the calendar at this term. This fact, together with former experience, demonstrates conclusively that unless the Judges are relieved from circuit duty, and the Court made stationary, so that the increasing business can be disposed of before it reaches more formidable proportions, justice will be substantially denied by the delay that must necessarily ensue in trying causes. Q.

[FROM THE REPORTER FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, Friday, March 11.

The Hon. R. H. GILLETT, long connected with the Law Department of the Government, has published an argument to show that the revenues of the Post-office establishment can be applied after June next to pay for transporting the mail and other expenses of the Department notwithstanding the failure of the Post-office Appropriation bill.

General DENVER proposes to return to California by the next steamer, and this involves his resignation as Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

The Supreme Court to-day announced decisions in seventeen cases, but did not deliver the opinions. The Court then adjourned until December next, having cleared less than half the calendar.

The trial of the Hon. DANIEL E. SICKLES will not probably take place until the week after next, the Grand Jury not being inclined to give his case precedence over others.

A statement made up at the Treasury Department shews that the circulation of the banks throughout the country, in 1856, was nearly two hundred and fifteen millions; in 1857, one hundred and fifty millions, and in 1858, one hundred and ninety-three millions and a third.

The remains of the late Postmaster-General were sent to Tennessee this afternoon, in charge of Justice CATRON, Senators NICHOLSON and JOHNSON, and Col. SAVAGE, of that State, the offer of Adams Express Company having been accepted.

Hudson River Navigation.

ROMBOUT, Friday, March 11.

The steamer Norwich arrived here this morning from New-York City. She encountered large quantities of heavy ice between here and Poughkeepsie. The ice is moving with each tide. At the Elbow and at Esopus Meadows it is piled up very thick, making it very difficult for the steamers to work their way through. It will be several days before the river will be navigable at this place unless a warm change in the weather takes place.

Wheat Shipments.

OSWEGO, Friday, March 11.

The Commercial Times' annual statement of trade and commerce, published this afternoon, shows, reducing flour to wheat, that the total movement of grain over Lake Ontario in 1858 was 21,800,000 bushels, against 18,000,000 bushels in 1857. The total shipments from the Lake regions by various routes eastward in 1858 were 52,400,000 bushels, against 45,400,000 bushels in 1857.

The Wanderer and her Cargo.

SAVANNAH, Friday, March 10.

The Republican says that a portion of the Africans imported in the Wanderer, and carried to Jackson, Talbot County, were arrested near Albany, and carried back eighty miles. They will probably be claimed by the alleged owners.

Dudley Observatory Again—Letter from Mrs. Blandina Dudley.

From the Albany Atlas and Argus.

GENTLEMEN: My attention has been called to a statement published in the Evening Journal of the 8th inst., that the Rev. Dr. Reese, at the close of a course of lectures delivered by Professor MITCHEL in this city, stated to a large audience that a few hours previously, in company with Professor MITCHEL, he had made a call of courtesy upon me, and that during the visit I extended a pressing request to Professor MITCHEL that he would gratify the wishes of the citizens of Albany, and my own, by assuming the professional supervision of the Dudley Observatory.

Learning that the statement referred to has given rise to false impressions, I desire to say that Dr. Reese and Professor MITCHEL called upon me on the afternoon of the 7th instant, and that Professor MITCHEL, without apprising me that he differed from my friends and from my well-known views respecting the unfortunate controversy in which the Observatory is involved, stated that he was about to take charge of the Observatory and relieve it from its embarrassments. Not suspecting that any publicity or importance would be given to a remark made during a social visit of such gentlemen, and not intending to express more than mere civility to a visitor required, I replied that I was glad to hear that such was the case.

The majority of the Trustees of the Dudley Observatory did not consult me concerning the removal of Dr. GOULD nor the appointment of Professor MITCHEL, and I did not intend, in the interview referred to, to approve of their action in this or any other respect, nor that my words should be used in any way before the public.

I am pained at the necessity of correcting and explaining a private conversation which took place at my own residence, and which has been repeated before an audience and published without my consent.

ALBANY, March 10, 1859.

AFFAIRS AT ALBANY.

The Appropriation Bill—Stringent Economy Insisted On—No Respect for Permanent Politics—The Charities Badly Damaged by their Reckless Friends—All-night Session of the Assembly—The Contested Seat—The Times Pressured on Oracle, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Friday, March 11, 1859.

Mr. CONKLING has covered himself with fame and curses. His Appropriation bill, which cuts off $1,200 from the Governor's allowance for house rent, cuts down the expenses of almost every State office, lops off scores of old withered branches that it has been the custom to hang gifts upon, and turn up innumerable suckers, has been put through the Assembly's Committee of the Whole, and ordered to a third reading. It was the special order for yesterday; was dismissed all day and taken up again in the evening. There was an earnest effort to insert some further provision for the charitable institutions, and the House by a small majority ordered the more worthy, tried and useful of them to be inserted. But friends of some that had been left out were unwilling in their efforts to open the bill and stick in a few more.

At 12 o'clock, midnight, the roll having been called and 68 answering to their names—some dozen others being in the cloak-room, and refusing without a call of the House to come in—the House again went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. VAN HORN in the Chair. Everybody was nibbling, lively, good-natured, but not very dignified in attitude, perhaps. Two amendments were pending. The Speaker, taking the floor, reminded gentlemen that if this bill was not to-night set out it would consume the week. He had been in the House five sessions, and never had seen an Appropriation bill disposed of without sitting out the night.

Mr. SPENCER (Republican) occupied his five minutes in repeating a speech about widows and orphans which he had made every half-hour during the evening. Hammered down.

New amendments, altered by a dollar or so from the amount voted down three hours before, being disposed of, the Speaker rebuked the factious spirit of the minority—not the political minority—and urged the thinking men to short speeches, honest amendments, quick votes, and a report of this bill to the House before adjournment. Mr. DURYEA and Mr. TOMLINSON denied a factious spirit, and urged that progress be reported. The Committee refused.

Mr. GOBAND, Republican, rebuked the member from New-York who had made so much complaint of delay on several occasions for his perpetual speech-making, and—being called to order by Mr. SCHUYLER, he assured that gentleman that he too certainly had occupied his full share of time. The Major explained how that may have happened.

Mr. HUTCHINSON replied to some remarks about the impropriety of men uneducated to the law, quoting the law.

More amendments were voted down, concerning the salaries of State officers. At 1 o'clock Mr. SMITH, of New-York, moved that the Committee rise and report progress. Voted down. Mr. CHESEBRO said that as all the amendments that gentlemen wished to move had been offered, he hoped they would report the bill to the House. A score of amendments were roared out in opposition to the suggestion. A good deal of noise—all honest business noise, the noise of hurrying up amendments—enlivened proceedings for a quarter of an hour. Mr. Andrus, Mr. Duryea, Mr. Tomlinson, Mr. Rutherford, Mr. Spencer and Mr. Meeks pleaded each for charity. At 10 minutes to 2, A. M., progress was reported on the bill. The Speaker took the Chair and there came up a quick succession of motions to adjourn on all which the Ayes and Nays were ordered by the minority. The motion to recommit to insert the Infirmaries—it being explained that it would return the bill to the Committee of the Whole, and require another night's session, was refused by the following vote:

AYES—Messrs. Andrus, Carpenter, S. S. Childs, Cornelius Crecker, Duryea, Farnum, Filkins, Hubbell, Johnson, King, Schoolcraft, Shaw, Spencer, Smith, Snell, Suydam, Tomlinson, Van Cortlandt, Woodruff—20.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Bacheller, Bliss, Briggs, Brockway, Clark, Coburn, Colt, Collins, Conkling, Fuller, Godard, H. K. Graves, Green, Hall, Holmes, Holt, Kline, Littlejohn, Loomis, H. A. Lyon, L. B. Lyon, Mackin, Morris, Moulton, S. R. Palmer, Partin, Payne, Pendell, Pierce, Pond, Ranney, Rider, Roe, Shepard, Slocum, Stewart, C. Thomas, Thompson, Tuthill, Van Horn, Weaver, Wiggins, Wiley, Woodbury—44.

At 2 o'clock Mr. TUTHILL moved the previous question, which by the ayes and nays was ordered. And now there could be no adjournment, under the Speaker's ruling, and a reconsideration of the order for the previous question not having been asked in time, until the whole subject was disposed of. Almost instantly the hall apple-woman's stock in trade was exchanged for cash. Members made themselves as snug as possible in their seats—but if one assumed the attitude of a confessed sleeper he was called to order, and straightened up. Mr. PERRY's boots getting accidentally, as he snoozed, upon the desk, Mr. SPRAGUE moved to take them from the table and refer to the first Committee of the Whole—ruled out of order. Somebody set a fool's-cap on a sleeper's head, the Speaker rebuked the offender, but not by name. Now in quick succession the amendments moved in Committee of the Whole were offered, the ayes and nays taken, and voted down. The motion to insert the Infirmaries of New-York and Brooklyn in the appropriation bill was voted down, all the New-York and Kings County members voting to insert them.

The motion to amend the bill by increasing the amount appropriated to the Governor, for house rent was voted down, all of the Democrats voting for the increase. The bill cuts down the items for clerk hire in most of the Departments of State—and the majority refused to amend in this respect. An amendment continuing the appropriation for State Prison Inspectors' traveling expenses as heretofore, was adopted—the only change permitted in the bill during the evening thus far. Motions to cut off the salaries of the State Paleontologist—on which the merry speeches of the day aggregated some two hours probably, and of the Curator of the Cabinet, were voted down. With a single exception the ayes and nays were called on every amendment offered, and the absentees persistently called. Mr. C. S. SPENCER and Mr. MEEKS had for the most part alone of the Republicans risen with the Democrats for the Ayes and Nays. As they had appeared during the day as the special champions of the Hospitals, for their factiousness, and for detaining the House two hours, the majority determined to punish them. So Mr. MEEKS, of Yates, moved a reconsideration of the decided vote by which the Hospitals had been inserted in the bill. Though the New-York and Kings men voted unanimously No, the Ayes had it, and, because two of their injudicious friends when fairly and repeatedly beaten, refused to let the House go on with its business, the Hospitals were cut off without a penny. While this vote was proceeding, the House was as still as if somebody were dying there. The mirth of the factious was dissipated, and a great many who had rather enjoyed it before, looked decidedly sorry. A motion to reconsider the appropriation to the Orphan Asylums was made in the same spirit as the last, but it failed. There were some score or more of amendments that had been offered in Committee of the Whole, and which were in order before the main question should be taken, but that Hospital vote had broken the wing of faction. All the honest amendments had been offered hours before. The main question being put, the bill was ordered to a third reading. Instantly at 4½ A. M. the House adjourned.

At 10 o'clock A. M. the House reassembled and fell to work with good appetites, doing a good deal of business rapidly. The Brooklyn Water and Sewerage bills were recommitted to Cities and Villages to give the Opposition a hearing. The Brooklyn Academy of Music Incorporation act was read a third time and passed. It needs only the Governor's signature to be a law. The Brooklyn Mercantile Library bill—as the Senate had amended it, striking out the Assembly provisions that boys under 16 years should not vote, and that they must be three months members before voting, was repassed, and needs only the Governor's approval to be a law. The other business was mostly of a local character.

It is understood that when the Appropriation bill comes to its third reading, the majority will move its recommitment to insert the charitable appropriations precisely as last year, and that this will carry, being forthwith reported complete. So the great annual fight is over until the Senate set their hands at it.

The Senate had a vigorous debate and a good season over the Mandeville contested seat. On a motion on one of the dozen amendments moved to it, to fix the time for the final vote on this question, Mr. SMITH desired a few moments' time to reply to Mr. W. A. WHEELER, and a motion was made and carried to allow Mr. S. fifteen minutes. Mr. S. took the floor, and read the letter from the Albany correspondent of the New-York TIMES on the contested seat. He charged that the whip and spur were being used by a tyrannical majority to drive Senators to a party vote on this question—that the bargain entered into between Americans and Republicans in the Eleventh District must be carried out. He charged that the NEW-YORK TIMES was an oracle of the Republican Party, and the correspondent writing by authority, which announcement made from seat a quarter on such an occasion excited humble Gladstone's head with a hole of glory. He still speaks, however, to respectable people, when enough poor and out of office. The contested seat question is to be settled—so mistake this time, for hitherto it has cost the Senate a long session and a sharp fight.—P. M., of Wednesday last. GLAUCUS.

The debate continued at considerable length on the motion to take the final vote in relation to Mr. MANSFIELD's seat on Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock. ASSEMBLY.....ALBANY, Friday, March 11.

The following is the continuation of the Assembly report from last night:

The adjournment of the Assembly did not take place until 5 o'clock this morning.

The debate on the Annual Appropriation bill was very spirited, and a resolute fight was made by Mr. C. S. SPENCER, DURYEA and others to secure the appropriations for the several charitable institutions of the State. The bill was thus opposed at every stage, amendment after amendment being proposed.

At 4 A. M. the Committee rose, but only to renew the fight in the House.

When the Speaker resumed the Chair every amendment offered in the Committee of the Whole was again proposed, and the ayes and noes demanded.

In the end the bill was ordered to a third reading, with the following material alterations: The sums of $22,500 for the New-York Hospital, and $30,000 for other Hospitals of the State, were both stricken out by a vote of 44 to 30.

On motion of Mr. MEARS, of Yates, the sum of $10,000 for the Pilot Commissioners was stricken out, and the sum of $35,000 for the Orphan Asylums of the State inserted.

The State Prison Inspector's traveling fees were raised from $1,200 to $2,700 per annum.

The bill was then ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

This morning, Mr. MEARS, from the Judiciary Committee, reported against amending the Assembly Apportionment act, by giving Broome County two and Livingston County one member.

Mr. BURR, representative from Broome, opposed the adoption of the report, demanded a hearing for Broome in the House, and protested against the disposal of the question by the Standing Committee.

After debate, the report was referred to the Committee of the whole House for consideration.

The bill to repeal the act creating the office of City Judge of New-York was reported unfavorably, and the report agreed to.

Concurrent resolutions amending the Constitution so as to disfranchise persons guilty of infamous crimes or bribery were reported by the Special Committee and referred to the Committee of the Whole.

The Commissioners of Emigration reported to the House that they have never applied to the court to test the title of the Castle Garden property. The State has brought suit against the City, and the Commissioners, as tenants of the City, are made parties in defence of the suit now pending. The Commissioners have made arrangements to hold possession under the City title until the question of title is decided.

Mr. ST. JOHN introduced a resolution, asking the opinion of the Attorney-General whether the State is responsible for damages to contractors, when their contracts are suspended by the State or its officers.

The bill to incorporate the Brooklyn Academy of Music was passed.

EVENING SESSION.

The Registry Law bill, as the special order, was taken up and debated during the remainder of the session, and progress reported upon it by the Committee.

When the Speaker resumed the Chair, Mr. SHEPARD moved that the House disagree with the report of the Committee and order the bill to be engrossed for a third reading.

Mr. LOOMIS opposed the motion, and it was withdrawn.

The bill was then made the special order for to-morrow, at 11 o'clock.

Interesting from Hayti.

OFFICIAL PROGRAMME OF THE GEFFRARD ADMINISTRATION—PROJECTS OF IMPROVEMENT—STATE OF FINANCIAL MATTERS.

Advices from Port-au-Prince to Feb. 17 have come to hand. The financial condition of the new Republic engages the attention of the Government, which announces its intention to prepare a statement of the national debt, left behind it by the recent Empire, and to provide for its payment.

It has also issued a proclamation declaring its basis of reform. It follows:

"Haytians! the financial condition of the country claims from the Government measures just but decisive. These measures will infringe upon many private interests. Those who enrich themselves by your labor, or by personal favor, will, without doubt, usually protest; but the course of Government will not be checked by their discontent. It will march on firmly, and woe to those who attempt to fetter it.

The era of pillaging is past! Each functionary is henceforth responsible for his acts; this responsibility is not illusory; it extends from the chief magistrate and his ministers to the lowest employe.

The public funds will not hereafter be considered the property of a few, but will be administered with impartiality.

The Government has much to do, but it relies on the aid and good sense of the community to obtain the results which it proposes for the general benefit.

The army will be reduced, as in a time of peace, a law determining the duration of military service will be made, so that the Haytian soldier will be not more a slave, but a free citizen, who understands that he ought to devote some time to the service of his country and does so cheerfully.

Agriculture shall be encouraged, the honest and laborious citizen shall have all the protection of Government, while robbers and vagabonds shall be punished with all the rigor of the law. The Government will see that the police in both town and country is active, without being arbitrary. The Government, in short, will encourage religion, public instruction, arts and sciences, as much as the state of the finances will permit."

A number of young men of Hayti are to be sent by the Republic, at its expense, to Europe, to pursue various mechanical and professional studies.

The Courts are to be reopened immediately.

By an arrival at Philadelphia we are placed in possession of our Rio files to Jan. 29.

The intelligence is of secondary moment.

On the 11th of January Don Luis Jose de la Peña, Minister Plenipotentiary of the Argentine Confederation, embarked on board the war steamer Paraná, which the Imperial Government had detailed to convey him to Paraná.

The treaty which Sen. de la Peña, in conjunction with the Envoy of the Oriental States, concluded with the Government of Brazil, Jan. 2, was in general terms a restoration of the treaty of Aug. 27, 1828. The negotiators on the part of Brazil were Sen. PARANHOS and the Visconde of UBERABA, and on the part of the Oriental States, Sen. D. ANDRES LAMAS. The treaty is represented as securing the assistance of Brazil and Uruguay in compelling the return of Buenos Ayres to the Argentine Union.

In accordance with the supposition of an immediate intervention in the affairs of the River Plate, the Brazilian squadron at Saint Catharine's had been ordered immediately to Montevideo. The division consists of two sloops-of-war, two brigs, a steamer, and a schooner. The vessels departed for their destination on the 12th of January.

The rains of the latter half of December had done serious damage in the neighborhood of Pernambuco de Sul. The city was inundated, the streets for twelve days being passable only in boats.

The sales of coffee on the 17th of January reached 6,000 bags.

The shipments for the month, up to that day, amounted to 164,116 bags.

A commercial correspondent writes on the 17th:

"In consequence of a long continuance of unseasonable weather for coffee, our supplies, of late, have been very limited and deteriorated; and, for want of assortment very little can be shipped until the rains cease. Our stock, to-day, is 25,000 sacks, and we quote good fresh stroned fine, nominally at 3,000 per arroba.

Flour is exceedingly dull and low in price. Freights also dull.

The departures since the 5th of January have been: Jan. 6—Bark Mondamin, 3,600 sacks, Baltimore; schr. Coast Pilot, 2,400 Charleston. Jan. 7—Bark Archer, ballast, St. Thomas. Jan. 9—Brig Mary Mac Kee, ballast, St. Thomas. Jan. 10—Ship Brazil, ballast, New-Orleans; schooner F. Currie, 1,824 sacks, Baltimore; bark A. E. Grant, 3,460, New-York. Jan. 11—Bark Creole, 3,000, Baltimore. Jan. 12—Bark Leighton, 4,298, New-York; bark Roanoke, 3,400, New-York; barks Talisman and Annie Kendall, ballast, St. Thomas; bark Colonist, ballast, Savannah.

The bark Delegate cleared for New-Orleans.

Five vessels, it will be seen, have sailed hence, recently, in ballast."

GEN. ARTEGA DECLARES FOR THE LIBERALS—MOVEMENTS OF MIRAMON—REVENUES MEASURES OF JUAREZ—THE INSURRECTION AT TAMPICO.

By the arrival of the Quaker City at New-Orleans last week, we have later intelligence from Mexico. Another arrival at the same port gives us later and important from Tampico.

Gen. ARTEGA, at Tulancalgo, with 500 men when he commenced, had pronounced in favor of the Constitution of 1857.

The Liberal troops under DONDIEGO have taken possession of San Luis Potosi and are endeavoring to concentrate the forces with the view to make an attack on the City of Mexico.

Gen. MIRAMON has collected a force, it is said, of 4,000, at Orizaba, to attack Vera Cruz. Great apprehensions are felt for the result, for Zenazua, with his ill-disciplined and badly armed troops, is not in a condition to contend against such a force. If Vera Cruz should fall, in all probability Oaxaca, Tehuantepec, and even Acapulco, together with the other strongholds of the Liberal Party, would succumb, as our accounts from that portion of the Republic, (Feb. 15,) give us reason to believe that much dissatisfaction exists. The hopes of the Church Party are brightening, and great faith is placed in MIRAMON, who seems, from his recent success, to have become the soldier of Mexico, and to share the military fame of SANTA ANNA.

In the meantime such is the desire of JUAREZ to strengthen the defences of Vera Cruz that the troops from all the adjacent sea-ports have been withdrawn, leaving them entirely unprotected, and it is rumored that Gen. CORZO, at the head of 1,000 men, was marching in the direction of the eastern provinces, with the view of exacting forced loans from the defenceless towns. As Minatitlan contains many American residents, and there is much property belonging to the Transit Company concentrated there, it seems an imperative duty of the United States Government to dispatch a vessel-of-war to the Coatzacoalcos, in order to protect the large interests and preserve intact the integrity and safety of the transit between the two oceans.

A correspondent of the New-Orleans Picayune writes from Tampico, Feb. 12:

"A large portion of the garrison of this city made an attempt last night to pronounce for the plan of Mexico—that of MIRAMON. The plot was disclosed to Gen. GARZA by a lady who had accidentally become acquainted with it. Thus advised beforehand, he was able to take precautionary measures to defeat it, and in this he was successful. The plot was an extensive one, and in it were involved all the leaders of the reactionary party. The preconcerted signal agreed upon for putting it in execution was the firing of a gun. The conspirators counted upon certain success, and already considered themselves in possession of the power of the City and State. In the meantime, however, GARZA, advised, as before said, of their movements, had called together his most trusted officers and friends and prepared to meet the emergency. And at the moment the signal gun was fired he suddenly pounced upon his enemies, and not only prevented the execution of the plot, but made sure of about twenty of the principal men engaged in it, who are now in prison.

Previously to this attempt at overturning his authority, GARZA was preparing to send five hundred men to Vera Cruz, to aid JUAREZ in the defence of that city against the attack of MIRAMON. It was this resolution, in fact, which stimulated the reactionary party to the present movement. They not only desired to prevent, by every means in their power, assistance being sent to the Constitutionalists, but thought the occasion a good one for seizing upon the authority of the city and State themselves. But I am rejoiced that they failed in the attempt, and that thus we have escaped the miseries consequent upon another political overturn. Any Government is better than these miserable revolutions."

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

WASHINGTON, Friday, March 11.

New-Orleans papers of Saturday last are received. They contain the details of the news by the brig Minatitlan, from Tampico on the 20th ult.

The Tampico papers manifested considerable alarm as to the result of MIRAMON's expedition, but they considered Vera Cruz in a most perfect state of defence.

More than 4,000 men, says the Prisma, can be concentrated there at a moment's notice in case of attack, without including the commands of LARAVA and IZASA, or the army of Oajaca, numbering 1,000, now before Orizaba. All counted, the Liberals have for the defence of the city about 6,000 available troops. On the other hand the Prisma thinks that not more than 1,000 men can be spared from the cities now held at the point of the bayonet by the reactionary party, and that MIRAMON will have to depend almost entirely upon the army with which he set out from the capital.

In the meantime the war is to be prosecuted with vigor all through the interior.

FALLING OF THE FLOOR OF A CHURCH—FOUR LIVES LOST.—The following particulars of the calamity of the 9th, at St. Mary's Church in Oswego, are given by the Palladium: "The Church was literally packed with people. The exercises of the evening had just commenced, or were about to commence, when about one-third of the floor, immediately in front of the altar, gave way from the immense weight, and fell to the basement, precipitating about one-third of the audience in an indiscriminate mass in the space below. As soon as the mass of people had left the Church, a number of men, together with Mr. GUIMARD and the Redemptorist Priests, Jos. H. WARD and others, rushed to the relief of the unfortunate people who were lying dying, and even dead. Many women were taken out of the Church insensible, some with broken limbs, some dead. One man, LAWRENCE MURRAY, brother-in-law of LUKE RAVENAH, member of the Oswego Guard, was taken out dead; also Mrs. MARY GARDIE and Mrs. BRIDGET LAWSON, who were conveyed to the house of R. H. MASON, Esq., opposite, where both died, expired. Another woman, Mrs. MARGARET HARRISON, was taken to the residence of Mr. KARR, where she also expired in a short time. It was found that a portion of the large cross-beams near the altar was very much decayed in the centre by dry rot, but to all appearance extremely sound near the ends. This beam, broke off under the excessive weight, then carrying the division.

THE TREASURY FRAUDS IN OHIO.

Reports on the Treasury Investigating Committee—Some Important Facts Developed—Other Matters.

The State Commissioners appointed by the Legislature of Ohio to investigate the Treasury affairs of that State, have made their report. It was presented to the Legislature March 4, accompanied by a Special Message from Governor GRAND. The Governor says he submits the documents to which the Report refers, with the assurance that the Commissioners have discharged their duties to the satisfaction of the Executive, and that the statements were not unnecessarily expressed by the Legislature, and that that body transcended the duties of its legitimate province; that responsibility rests with the report for legislative action.

The Commissioners appointed by the Legislature were Messrs. A. P. Stephens, Columbus, and W. D. Menzies. They open their report with an apology for its unusual length, but state that their specific instructions left them no option. Mr. KENNEDY, doubting the constitutionality of the creation of the Commission, accepted to serve until the opinion of the Courts had been obtained. The Commission, having proceeded to business [illegible] Stephens, examined by Mr. Cushing.—I live in [illegible]; I have not lived here two years yet; I came from County Cavan, Ireland; I knew the deceased Mrs. Stevens; I did not know the defendant till I came here; the Bells were all a decent family, and had a good character; I saw Mrs. Stevens twice while she was sick; the first time I don't remember; the second time I saw her was the day before her death; the day before that I was either on Monday or Tuesday; I saw her lying in bed; it was about seven o'clock in the morning; I was alone; I staid a few minutes there; I did not know Mr. Stevens; Stephens was not there; she told me she was no better; and fell the same burning in her body; I did not see her afterwards; I had seen her before her sickness; after her sickness she was all blood; she was bloated up, with a red hue on her face.

Michael Flynn, examined by the District-Attorney—I am a druggist; I reside at No. 420 Second-avenue; I know the defendant Stephens; I knew Mrs. Stevens; I do not recollect when I last saw the prisoner Stephens, previous to her death; I sold Stephens something five weeks before her death; I sold him half an ounce of arsenic; I sold him half an ounce a week previous to that; the color of the arsenic was a clear crystal; in the habit of coming into my place once or three times a week for some time past; I do not recollect of his being in my place from the time I sold him the last arsenic till I heard of his wife's death. (Envelope shown to witness—it was the envelope of the anonymous letter sent to Mr. Cardwell.) I think that address on that envelope, by order of John Stephens; he came into my store, in the month of June last, as near as I can recollect—the commencement of Summer, at any rate—and got me to write it; handed it back to James Stephens, and he took it away.

Walter L. Sanford, examined by District-Attorney—I reside at No. 46 East Thirty-second-street; I am a Police officer; I am acquainted with premises No. 156 East Twenty-seventh-street; I have visited the rooms in which the defendant lives; they are on the south side of Twenty-seventh-street; there are windows in the rear of the house, looking from his rooms into Twenty-sixth-street, on the premises of Mr. John Stevenson; yesterday I pinched a piece of paper in the window in Stephens' bedroom, and went over to Stevenson's factory; I could see the paper very plain.

This witness was not cross-examined.

John Ward, examined by the District-Attorney—I reside at No. 474 Pearl-street; I am an undertaker; I knew Edward D. Cossery, the late Coroner; I visited Greenwood Cemetery with him last September; on the 20th; the two Miss Bells, George Rice, and another gentleman were there also; we disinterred the remains of Mrs. Stephens; I opened the coffin for the young ladies to recognize the features; they did so; I placed the coffin in the hearse; took it to Bellevue Hospital, where it was received again by the bodies in charge of the corpse, after which it was given in in charge to Coroner Daly; I afterwards saw the coffin and a part of the body in the dead-house, about the 3d of October; I put it into a box; took it to Greenwood Cemetery, deposited it in the same grave, and have not seen it since; it was on the occasion of my taking it back that I saw it the second time; the corpse I saw at Bellevue Hospital was the same corpse I removed from the Cemetery; the face of the corpse appeared black.

James Brandon, examined by the District-Attorney—I reside at No. 189 East Twenty-sixth-street; my [illegible] name is James Brandon; he works at Mr. [illegible]'s coach manufactory; I knew the late Mrs. Stephens; I used to see her at the Twenty-seventh-street Church; I called upon her during her illness; it was nearly two weeks before she died; it was in the forenoon of her illness; she was in her own sitting-room; she had been lying down, but was rather better; she was facing the windows; I observed she had a black eye; I saw her afterwards during her sickness; she was in bed; I did not then notice her black eye; I heard a scuffle in the room; I was sitting in the room; I heard a noise in the room above, if my door was open; I have a wife and child.

Direct resumed—I was never in Mrs. Stephens' house; I never had any business required me to be away from home; I never took particular notice of her face; I used to see her in church regularly.

To Mr. Cushing—I may have when she was laid out, and did not notice that she had a black eye; I think, when she was alive, if she had had a black eye, I should have observed it.

To Mr. Shaffer—I cannot say how long it was before her death that I last saw her.

Dr. Amos E. Wood, examined by Mr. Sedgwick—I reside at No. 2 Irving place; I am a physician and surgeon; I was present at Bellevue Hospital in the presence of Dr. Doremus, Coroner Cossery and some others; I made a post-mortem examination there, on Sept. 24, 1858; Dr. Doremus and his assistant, Dr. Fletcher, Dr. Woodward, Dr. Gourley, the curator of the museum, and several of the assistants of the Hospital; I made a post-mortem examination of a female that I caused to be taken from a coffin, on the plate of which was inscribed "Sophia Stephens, died Sept. 22, 1857, aged 46 years;" the Misses Bell were not in the room; I caused the body to be removed from the coffin by an assistant in the Hospital; it was removed without dismemberment; I examined the anterior surface of the body, for the purpose of ascertaining its condition; I found the skin of a dirty yellow color, in a very remarkable state of preservation; it had not shrunk any, and was plump and full; the face, sides of the head, with the anterior portion of the scull, were in an advanced state of decomposition; then I made a posterior examination, by turning the body over; with the exception of the scalp, it presented the same appearances the anterior did; the scalp was decomposed; I then made a dissection of the anterior portion of the body, from the sternum to the pubis, in a medial line; this brought into view the anterior portion of the liver, the stomach, the colon and the omentum; the liver, stomach and colon were in a remarkable state of preservation; the stomach and omentum were well preserved and loaded with fat; the other viscera of the abdomen were examined before I commenced to remove them; they were also apparently healthy and well preserved; I then proceeded to remove the viscera of the abdomen—first by applying a ligature round the cardiac orifice of the stomach, and another round the pyloric orifice; this was done by Dr. Doremus and placed in a vessel prepared for the purpose; I then removed a portion of the intestines which was also placed in a vessel prepared by Dr. Doremus; the intestines were examined and that which the gave in such instances is discharged by certain spirits who have, for the time, the complete control of her mind; and also, while in the act of delivering such lectures she is at times in a state in which her will is so much suspended that she is partially or wholly under the control of other persons, and, upon request, will permit acts to be done which she is unable to resist. That up to the time of her return from Cuba she was treated by her husband in the most kind and affectionate manner; that on her return she was received by him with the warmest affection; that he met her on her coming back, she met him with open arms, and expressed the utmost joy at his return; but that, within an hour afterwards her manner suddenly changed, and she informed him that she could not further live with him as his wife.

That from that time to the arbitration the health of plaintiff became in some degree impaired, and her conduct towards defendant so flint and strange, that he was forced to believe her mind in some degree deranged, especially as to the moral sentiments; that for some five or six years past his attention has to a greater or less degree been engaged in the investigation of spiritualism, during which he has at times believed it might develope truths of great importance to mankind; that it was this subject that first brought him to be acquainted with and finally marry the plaintiff; and about his marriage with her, he has been encouraged by Judge Edmonds and other eminent spiritualists to have his wife continue her lectures on the assumption that he was a very extraordinary case of spiritualistic development.

That from information derived from reliable sources, and from his observation, he is convinced that as a general rule spiritual mediums, so called, fall into a morbid and unsound condition of the moral sentiments, leading them more especially to a disregard of the marriage covenant; no less than seventy cases having occurred in the United States of the estrangement and separation of husbands and wives from this cause.

That he hoped and was encouraged to believe that his wife might develop a better phase of the phenomena; that after the sudden and unaccountable change in her conduct he corresponded with Judge Edmonds, then absent, he being considered good authority on the subject, and received a letter, of which a copy is enclosed, giving him advice on the subject. That after the same period, and whenever he was permitted to approach the plaintiff, he has tried to convince her that she was in danger of falling into the same state, and has endeavored to rescue her from it. And deponent verily believes that sundry persons have taken advantage of her unfortunate condition to promote a separation between plaintiff and defendant, some of whom wish to control the money to be realized from her lectures, and others wish to have possession of her person.

LETTER OF JUDGE EDMONDS.

LAKE GEORGE, August 20, 1858.

DEAR HATCH: I am very sorry, but not surprised to hear of Cora's indisposition.

It is the result of my observations and experience, that the mediums for mental manifestations cannot with safety be overworked.

The draft on the vital energies is very great, and unless properly regulated such mediumship is likely to be injurious.

Sometimes it affects the physical health as in the cases of Miss Harding and Miss Sweet; and sometimes the moral as in the case of Cora and some others.

Having regarded this as a truth, I have been very careful in that regard with Laura. I have watched closely her condition at times, and whenever I saw any signs of overworking, I have insisted on her stopping for a week or two at a time, and taking rest and recreation. I have then insisted upon an entire cessation during the warm weather. Hence it is I favored this rest of two months in the country, and thus it is I have preserved her powers and condition unimpaired.

Last Summer my admonition to cease in May was neglected, and the importunity of friends yielded to instead. The evil consequences were soon manifest, and I know no exception to the rule.

The remedy in Cora's case is rest, time and recreation. She ought now for at least two months to spend her time in pleasant scenes, in agreeable scenery, and with an entire cessation of all spiritual influence. She will then recover a sound frame of mind.

I shall be in town on Monday next and will be glad to see you, and in conversation enter more into detail than I can do in the limits of a letter. Yours, &c.,

J. W. EDMONDS.

The motion papers being read, argument of counsel was heard up to the hour of adjournment; the counsel for the defendant being then speaking. The case will proceed to-morrow at 11 A. M.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—MARCH 10

Before Judge Hall.

Henry Bulled, second mate of the ship Wild Pigeon, was put on trial charged with cruel and unusual punishment inflicted upon one Nelson, a seaman on board. The only witness against him was one John Brown, who testified that he was a seaman on the Wild Pigeon, which sailed from this port for Valparaiso on March 7, 1856; that the accused shipped as a boy, but was advanced after the ship got to sea, to the post of second mate; that when the ship was about three weeks at sea Nelson did not work to suit the first mate, and he ordered the accused to beat him, whereupon the accused did beat him with a rope for two hours, and three days afterwards Nelson died. On cross-examination he testified to another severe beating inflicted upon Nelson by the Captain and first mate the next day, and that they lashed a chest to his back and made him walk for about an hour, and that he fell down under the chest several times; that he was at work that afternoon, but never turned out after that.

The defendant Bulled was a mere boy, not 17 years old at the time. Nelson was a tall, large man. The ship was not here, and no other of the ship's company or officers were examined. The case was given to the Jury about 1 P. M.

MARCH 11.

The Jury in this case, after being out all night, came into Court this morning with a verdict of guilty, but recommending the prisoner to the mercy of the Court on account of his youth.

Judge HALL called Bulled before him and asked him if he had anything to say. He had nothing at first, but on being questioned, he said that he never struck Nelson at all; that the witness Brown was insolent to him one day, and by the mate's orders he struck Brown with a rope, whereupon Brown threatened to have revenge upon him; that he was 17 years old last November; shipped on the Wild Pigeon as a boy, but there were but two good hands on board and the captain made him second mate; that he had left the sea and was living now in Brooklyn, with his mother.

Judge HALL said he did not feel satisfied to dispose of the case in its present aspect, but should be inclined to suspend sentence until something was heard from the officers of the ship, if the prisoner could give bail in $500 that he would appear for sentence. He was accordingly remanded.

Mr. Ridgway appeared for the defence; for the prosecution, Mr. Dwight.

The Grand Jury brought in indictments this morning in the following cases:

The United States vs. John Brown and five others of the crew of the bark Zephyr—An indictment for a refusal to do duty on board the bark in Messina, Sicily.

The United States vs. Carmine Briagi.—An indictment for fraudulently impairing some gold half eagles.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Justice Pierrepont.

Thomas S. Nelson vs. Francis Voss et al.—This is a replevin suit to recover several thousand dollars' worth of railroad iron.

It appears that on the 3d of August, 1857, the defendant took by writ of claim and delivery 7,338 bars of railroad iron, weighing 1,300 tons, and worth 200,000, from the Chicago, St. Paul and Fon du Lac Railroad Company.

The plaintiffs allege that the Railroad Company had hypothecated the iron to them for $50,000 advanced.

The case is still on.

Before Justice Woodruff.

Beaver vs. Williams.—In this case the Jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff against the defendant Williams, and assess the value of the property at $1,800, and the damage for the detention at $603 80. The case was reported in the TIMES of Thursday, March 3.

Chester Leach vs. The Mayor, &c.—This action is brought to recover the value of two horses drowned by falling off pier No. 30 North River. On May 25, 1857, the driver of a coach belonging to the plaintiff conveyed some passengers from the St. Nicholas Hotel to the steamboat Armenia, then lying at the foot of Chambers-street, pier No. 30 North River. This day the boat had on board a band of music, which happened to strike up just after this coach had unloaded. The horses became a little restless, and backed down the pier slowly, until coming to a place where the string-piece had been removed, the coach and horses rolled off into the water. The horses were lost, and the coach much injured.

The answer for the City is that the pier was then in the possession of the Pavonia Ferry Company and that the City was therefore free from liability.

Mr. Willard for plaintiff, and Mr. Busteed for defendant.

NOTE.—A very similar case (Martin vs. The Mayor, &c.) was reported it will be remembered, in the TIMES of Tuesday, Feb. 15.

SUPREME COURT.

Before Justice Hoffman.

John P. Comm vs. Wm. M. Wilmarth et al.—No injunction can be granted, except to restrain the defendants from parting with any watches or watch cases, part and parcel of those sold to the plaintiff.

Before Chief Justice Bosworth.

Ann Pierson vs. Louis Woefelscott.—Case settled.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Captain Couthony telegraphs from Orleans, Massachusetts, March 9, that the brig Menagoe, of Boston, from St. Thomas, Feb. 19, in ballast, went ashore on Nauset Beach, at 3 P. M., in a thick gale from the eastward. The crew were saved with their instruments. Should the weather moderate, the spars and rigging will be saved. The hull is probably a total loss. The Menagoe was dispatched by a Submarine Company of Boston, a year or two since, to recover the treasure of the sunken frigate San Pedro, on the coast of Venezuela, but met with poor success, recovering only a few thousand dollars, while the cost of the expedition was probably twenty times that amount.

A gentleman in New-Haven has in his possession a number of old bank bills, issued during the year of 1815 by the Phoenix Bank. One of them notes [illegible] in the following peculiar language: "The President and Directors promise to receive of the bearer this note, of one dollar, in payment for any debt due this bank, excepting for circulating notes, or to pay the bearer the same dollar the moment of the demand."

A letter from an officer of the Texas Boundary Commission, received in Washington, states that the work is progressing rapidly, and notwithstanding the inclemency of the season. The weather is represented as having been extremely cold during January, the thermometer being sometimes as low as 45 degrees below freezing point. The party were all in good health.

The abandonment of Fort Brown (Texas) is censured by the Brownsville Flag, on the ground that the post was necessary to maintain peace on the border, and to protect the transit of treasure from Mexico. The Flag says: "This treasure is necessarily transported over an unsettled country, affording every inducement for the attack of the lawless."

A correspondent from Olivehi, Tehuantepec, writes that the head-quarters of the Railroad Survey are already established at that place, and that the various corps of engineers had proceeded to their respective fields of labor. The entire party was well at last accounts.

A noted street-preacher, named Joseph Barker, has been arrested in Pittsburg for inciting a riot on Sunday. He was fined and locked up.

In the White divorce case at Pittsburg, the Jury have rendered a verdict for defendant (the husband)—denying Mrs. White's plea for divorce.

Fast-Day in Massachusetts, is appointed for Thursday, April 7.

DRY GOODS—The market exhibits no very important changes. The demand is restricted,—yet, with reduced supplies of really desirable fabrics available, prices are well supported. Domestic Cottons particularly, are held with much firmness; and the increasing value of the raw material tends to strengthen the confidence of holders. Domestic Woolens are attracting considerable attention. Fresh and popular goods bring remunerative prices. The current sales of other descriptions are, in the main, being effected at unsatisfactory rates. The movements in Foreign Productions have been moderate. Holders generally, however, have not manifested any unusual eagerness to sell. Hence, prices have not varied remarkably. The auction sales of Domestic and Foreign Goods, have not been very attractive, and the general results have been essentially the same, as in the instances of the public sales, previously noticed. The value of the week's imports of Foreign Dry Goods, has been $2,364,870, against $1,092,568, same week last year. The amount marketed during the week was $2,415,708, against $1,431,445, same week in 1858. Of the week's total imports,—Woolens comprised $651,154; Cottons, $702,636; and Silks, $662,679. In each item, the entries direct for consumption, constituted the bulk of the total entries,—only a very limited amount having been warehoused.

DYEWOODS—Sales 150 tons St. Domingo Logwood, at $14 50 ⅌ ton.

FISH—Dry Cod, Pickled Mackerel, and Pickled Herring are in request at uniform quotations. Other kinds remain as last noticed.

FOREIGN LIQUORS—The demand is fair and prices are quite firm, in some instances, favoring sellers.

FLOUR AND MEAL—The market exhibits rather more firmness to-day for desirable lots of State and Western Flour, for which a livelier inquiry exists. The regular trade demand is the most active. Holders appear to be less eager to sell, and generally refuse to make any important concessions to buyers. Sales have been reported of 13,500 bbls., within our revised range.

Mr. Wm. G. Dunne notices the week's business in the principal kinds of Breadstuffs, thus: "The market for State and Western Flour continued active and buoyant during the early part of the week; toward the close, however, less activity prevailed and for some descriptions prices were a trifle lower. The demand from the regular trade has been restricted, and speculators have evinced less disposition to operate. The transactions yesterday were to a fair extent, the market firm, with more of a speculative inquiry at the close. Southern Flour has been in fair request at a slight advance on the common grades, the better qualities remaining about the same. The buoyancy in the Wheat market noticed in last week's report continued up to Wednesday, since which time it has been more quiet, without important change in prices. Prime Wheat has been sparingly offered, and choice parcels are quite scarce. The demand has been fair, both from the home trade and local millers. Yesterday's transactions were to a fair extent, with a firm and buoyant market. Corn has been more actively dealt in, and prices have advanced; the market, however, has been somewhat irregular, closing at 88c.@89c. for Western Mixed, and 87c.@92c. for Southern Yellow—the latter price for 5,000 bushels of choice for the South American market."

ALVA "BURNS TARTANS."—DURING THE Whole of last year the tartan trade was in a very prosperous condition, and the present year, we are happy to state, has opened under very favorable auspices. While speaking on this subject, it would be omitting a duty not to notice two beautiful designs at present exhibited in the warerooms of Messrs. MacArthur, Bone & Co., Glasgow. The first and by common in honor of the Gaelic-speaking portion of the national minstrel. The one, a delicate fancy of coloring, has been denominated the "Highland Mary," and the other, which is more chaste, and partakes more of the judgment of Lowland taste, has received the inspiring name of "Robert Burns." Taste, the designer, Mr. Ross, it will be remembered, received the prize at the late Celtic competition for the manufacture of a new tartan, a dress of which was presented to the Queen, and graciously received.—Glasgow Herald.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The steamship North Briton, from Liverpool on the 3d of February, arrived at Portland yesterday morning. Later dates were received by our dispatches from the Arabia, at Halifax, which, however, left us without any of the news brought by the present arrival. This news is of interest. Mr. GLADSTONE was said to be on his way home from Corfu. In the House of Commons, Government had introduced a bill rendering the payment of church rates voluntary, rather than compulsory—a measure which was received with favor. M. BELLY left Southampton Feb. 17, with his advanced corps, to enter upon the preliminary work on the Nicaragua Canal. The rumor of Count WALEWSKI's approaching resignation gained ground at Paris. A treaty between France and Russia was also spoken of. In Italy a treaty between the Duchess of PARMA and Austria had placed all the fortified places of the Duchy in possession of the latter. The Neapolitan prisoners sailed from Cadiz Feb. 19, in an American vessel bound to New-York.

By the arrival of the Quaker City at New-Orleans we have additional advices from Mexico. The Liberals were concentrating for the long threatened attack upon the Capital, while MIRAMON was hastening towards Vera Cruz. In the order of his preparations for defending the latter city, President JUAREZ had drawn all the troops from the other seaports down the coast, and it was feared the Conservatives might seize the occasion to exact forced loans at such unprotected points. Gen. ARTEGA had lately declared for the Constitution, carrying over to the Liberal cause his force of 600 men. At Tampico an attempt of the garrison to pronounce for MIRAMON was made Feb. 12, but was promptly repressed by GARZA.

Our files of papers from Rio Janeiro extend to Jan. 18. The most interesting item of news is the direction of the Argentine Minister, after the conclusion of the tripartite treaty between his Government and the Governments of Brazil and Uruguay—a treaty involving the cooperation of those three States in the task of enforcing the return of Buenos Ayres to the bosom of the Argentine Confederation. A Brazilian squadron had been ordered to the Plata.

Later intelligence from Hayti indicates the rapid organization of affairs under the new Republican forms. The Courts of law are to be at once reopened; the occupants of positions of trust are to be held to a rigid accountability; the law of military service is to be remodeled, so as to bear less oppressively upon the citizen; and the debts entailed upon the State, by the imperial régime, are to be ascertained and paid. The general aspect of affairs is regarded as encouraging.

A curious chapter in the secret history of the country is developed in a letter from Commodore STUART to the President, delivered to the latter yesterday. According to this letter, the famous gun-boat navy of President JEFFERSON, which was so much ridiculed at the time of its construction, was intended for the seizure of Cuba, though ostensibly for the protection of the sea coast. One hundred and eighty of these boats were sent southward on this special Cuban service, but before Mr. JEFFERSON's filibustering plans could be properly perfected, the threatening condition of our relations with England rendered a postponement of the project necessary, and the opportunity never afterwards occurred for its revival.

In the State Senate yesterday, the bill to provide for the payment of the deficiency in the revenue of Brooklyn was passed. A bill was introduced to legalize the acts of the Common Council of this City in opening Duane and other streets. The matter of the alleged vacancy in Mr. MASTERSON'S District occupied attention for the rest of the day, and it was decided to take the final vote on Wednesday evening next. The Metropolitan Police bill was made the special order for Thursday next. The Assembly continued in Committee until 4 o'clock yesterday morning, engaged in hearing the General Appropriation bill. Various items of appropriation for charities, including $62,500 for the New-York Hospital, and $[illegible] for other Hospitals, were stricken out in Committee, and the bill was finally ordered to a third reading. Yesterday an unfavorable report was made on the bill proposing to abolish the office of City Judge in this City. A communication was received from the Commissioners of Emigration, explaining their connection with the Castle Garden property. During the evening session the Tax bill was passed, as was also the bill relative to the punishment of the Quarantine incendiaries. The Registry Law bill was debated, and was made the special order for to-day.

The Commission appointed by the Legislature of Ohio to investigate the frauds upon the State Treasury have published a voluminous report. It sets forth the extent of the swindles perpetrated by MINER, BARNEY, and GIBSON, who were successively State Treasurers. It is shown that these sagacious gentlemen put into each other's hands, with intent to defraud the State, which appears, by the report, to be a sufferer to the extent of about $[illegible].

The Committee of the Pennsylvania Legislature to whom the subject was referred, have determined, as we learn by our dispatches from Harrisburg, to report in favor of granting a divorce to the wife of HORACE B. FRY.

The three principal lines of steamers which ply on the Hudson, viz.: The Peoples', the Troy, and Knickerbocker Lines are all in readiness to commence their trips to Albany and Troy, and a steamer from each of the Lines will probably go up the river during the coming week. The information as to the breaking up of the ice is encouraging.

A meeting of a portion of the Exhibitors and Inventors of the American Union was held last evening at the Cooper Institute, the ostensible object being to hear a report from the Treasurer upon the affairs of that defunct institution. Nearly the whole evening was spent in wrangling and recrimination, in which the opposing parties were scarcely restrained from coming to blows. The most ludicrous scenes were enacted, and it was 10 o'clock before Mr. TISDALE presented his report. Another meeting will be called.

The coal dealers of the City met last evening in Cooper Institute to protest against the passage of the ordinance now before the Common Council to prevent frauds on the sale of coal. It was determined to prepare a remonstrance.

A young man, named WILLIAM C. CARROLL, residing at No. 276 Houston-street, accidentally shot his mother yesterday, wounding her so seriously that it is thought she cannot recover. He was preparing a pistol to shoot some rats, and, while putting on a percussion cap, the pistol was accidentally discharged. The ball entered his mother's back, near the right shoulder-blade, and passed out through the right breast. She is about forty-four years of age.

The trial of JAMES SMITHERS in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, for the murder of his wife, [illegible] last November, of laudanum. Yesterday the jury, after [illegible] he purchased an ounce of laudanum, [illegible] shortly before his wife's death, [illegible] Sally [illegible] three years. Dr. [illegible], who was [illegible] as to the post mortem on the [illegible] body of the deceased, and Professor DOUGLAS made a long and [illegible] examination, [illegible] the analysis of the [illegible], proving the existence of a large quantity of strychnia in them, after the lapse of a year. Dr. DOUGLAS also gave important testimony.

Argument was had yesterday, in the Superior Court, on the application of Mrs. CORA L. V. HAYES, for an injunction restraining her husband from making any attempt to interfere with or control her movements. A divorce suit is pending between the parties on her complaint, and she charges him with endeavors to abduct her by violence from the house of friends with whom she resides. Voluminous documentary proofs were put in on all the charges and counter-charges.

Judge RUSSELL seems to have an easy time in the Court of General Sessions. Only two trials have taken place during the week. There were no trials again yesterday, though there were a few pleas of guilty. MICHAEL BOURKE for an attempt at grand larceny, was sent to the State Prison for two years. CASPAR HOVEN, FRANK MILLER and CHARLES DOSCHER, for an attempt at burglary, were sentenced to the same prison for two years and six months. LEWIS BROGAN and JOHN GOOD for an attempt at burglary in the third degree went to the Penitentiary for one year.

Cotton continued in active request, yesterday, with sales of 4,500 bales. Prices were firm. Flour, Wheat and Corn, as well as Pork, Teas and Naval Stores, were more sought after. Coffee, Sugars, Molasses and Rice were in demand. Tobacco was freely purchased. Other branches of trade were essentially unaltered.

The Presidential Question.

The late session of Congress has had an important effect upon the coming Presidential canvass. It has modified the calculations of both political parties and has seriously damaged the prospects of the Democracy. Nothing, indeed, could be more disastrous than the results of the session upon that section of the Democratic Party which is identified with Mr. BUCHANAN's Administration. The President himself is as powerless and as friendless as was General PIERCE,—far more so, indeed, for whatever may have been his political infirmities, General PIERCE was a warm-hearted gentleman, true to his friends, and able to retain their respect and personal regard even when he could not gratify their political aspirations. Mr. BUCHANAN "set up for himself" in every respect, personal and political, when he became President. His oldest and most devoted friends were the men first discarded,—his most virulent and unscrupulous defamers became his confidants and most cherished counselors. And politically his chief anxiety seems to have been to mislead the party, do violence to its most cherished principles, forswear all his own professions, and dig an impassable gulf between the Democratic Party and the popular sympathy.

Extravagant expenditure, national bankruptcy, an attempt to saddle the country with an enormous debt, the break-down of the Postal service, and the pervading influence of corruption in the Executive Departments, are among the legacies bequeathed to the Democratic Party by the Administration during the late session of Congress. Its early faithfulness to the principle of popular sovereignty might possibly have lost something of its influence, but for the new issue raised by the special representatives of the President in the Senate during the Kansas debate just before the adjournment. It was then distinctly announced that the Democratic Party must take ground in favor of Congressional intervention for the protection of Slavery in the Territories. Mr. MASON, of Virginia, laid this down as imperative upon any man who expected the Charleston nomination. Mr. DOUGLAS said, what every man of common sense must know to be true, that not a single Northern, Western or Middle State can be carried upon such a platform as that. He might have gone further:—the Democratic Party cannot be kept together upon any such platform;—and if the National Convention at Charleston shall adopt it, the National Democracy will be reorganized upon the basis of Popular Sovereignty, and will outvote the "regulars" three to one in every Northern State. The insurrectionary movement of 1848 would be repeated under every possible advantage, and with a much greater chance of success.

Almost every prominent politician in Washington expects a nomination for the Presidency;—and this was the reason why the President was compelled to go into the shades of the Patent-office to find a successor for the late Postmaster-General. No politician would risk his popularity, as a Presidential candidate, by undertaking the duties of an office, the disbursements of which were to be largely curtailed. Mr. BUCHANAN is undoubtedly hoping for a renomination,—but not even the humblest of his office-holders considers it necessary to pretend to be for him. Senator HUNTER will be a very formidable candidate,—strong in ability, in statesmanlike equipoise of mind and character, and in the general conservatism of his opinions. His adhesion to the President has involved him in an ugly quarrel with Gov. WISE, which will damage him in Virginia, and, consequently, at Charleston. Secretary COBB and Vice-President BRECKINRIDGE are both in position to command strong support for the nomination, and half-a-dozen others are hoping to be considered available. A very influential movement has recently been started, principally in this City, in favor of Mr. GUTHRIE, Gen. PIERCE's Secretary of the Treasury, whose reputation for integrity, it is thought, may be of especial service under existing circumstances.

It is not at all unlikely that the Charleston Convention may be in the hands of the Northern Democracy, and that they will feel it to be not only right, but absolutely necessary, to take the reins into their own hands,—reinstate the party upon the Popular Sovereignty platform of 1856, and nominate Senator DOUGLAS for the Presidency. If so, they would probably nominate Mr. STEPHENS, of Georgia, for Vice-President, and would consider themselves as thus quite prepared for any rebellious movement which the ultraists of a few Southern States might initiate. If the choice shall clearly be between a Northern and a Southern rebellion, it is very easy to see that the latter will be much the least disastrous to the party. If, on due consideration, the South should acquiesce in such a ticket, its prospects of success would be very formidable.

The Republicans have held the vantage ground throughout the session. They have been responsible for nothing and have yet been able to control almost everything. They have been saved from the consequences of their own ultraisms by the independence of some of their own number, who have saved them the odium of sacrificing the country to partizanship, as they have once or twice been in danger of doing, and the general tone of their leaders has been manly, statesmanlike and wise. Mr. SEWARD's chances of the nomination have greatly improved. He stands so preeminently at the head of the party, and is so conspicuously designated as its leader by his talents, services and experience, that he cannot be set aside or passed by without an exhibition of cowardice and injustice which would greatly impair the morale of the party, and damage its prospects. He has enlisted the active and in-

[illegible] mainly in his own States, and has been distrusted as too radical on many of the fundamental questions of the day. But these misgivings have been endeared very much within the past few years, and might yield entirely to the pressure of such a necessity of choosing as the coming canvass may present. It is to be borne in mind, also, that the conflicting claims which will follow his being passed by would involve difficulties quite as serious as could be created by his nomination. The question of availability will, to a very great extent control the action of the Republican Convention—but the feeling is growing with the party that Mr. S. may be after all as available as any other candidate. The main difficulty will be to find a candidate from a Southern State for Vice-President on the same ticket;—and the Party will scarcely consent to go through another canvass, with both nominees from one section of the Union. It is perhaps not impossible that Mr. CRITTENDEN would accept the nomination for Vice-President, under Mr. SEWARD;—such a combination would have the elements of great popular strength.

If the Democrats are unwise enough to nominate a Southern man, or any man standing upon the new intervention-for-Slavery platform, Mr. SEWARD's nomination may be considered certain, and his election highly probable. If they take DOUGLAS, or any man holding frankly and openly his position on the Slavery question, they may compel the Republicans to make some other selection or to take large risks in the canvass. It is not at all unlikely, however, that they may consider boldness the best policy. Valor is often the better part of discretion.

Affairs on the River Plate.

While Commissioner BOWLIN toils up the Parana to lay the choice of peace or war at the feet of President LOPEZ, a war-cloud of significant proportions is gathering behind him. On the 2d of January there was signed at Rio Janeiro a treaty of alliance offensive and defensive, the three Governments of Brazil, of Uruguay, and of the Argentine Confederation being the contractors, in which, it is asserted, by authorities most likely to be thoroughly informed, the forcible restoration of Buenos Ayres to the Argentine Union is to be accomplished. As circumstances collateral to and confirmatory of this view of the late negotiations, we have learned from recent arrivals of the rapid concentration of the Argentine forces upon the Buenos Ayrean frontier; of the urgent drafting, drilling, and equipment for war duty of the entire Oriental contingent; and of the dispatch of an additional squadron of Brazilian war vessels to the river Plate. These indications are not to be mistaken. Buenos Ayres is to have the alternative of resuming its place in the Confederation, or encountering a coalition against which it has no notable strength to oppose.

It will be remembered that the secession of Buenos Ayres from the Argentine league has never been rested upon constitutional grounds. It was simply an expression of personal hostility to the actual President of the Confederation, and was not even admitted to be a positive withdrawal from the Union, but a mere transient suspension of relations to be terminated upon the termination of URQUIZA's official career. Buenos Ayres is, in fact, indisposed to share the revenues which the superior advantages of her seaport pour into her treasury, and, at the same time, detain from the interior States; and as URQUIZA insists upon such partition, the antagonism to that chieftain is implacable. The history of the Plata region has been controlled these half dozen years by this quarrel. By arms, by diplomacy, by legislation, the Argentine statesman has endeavored to recover the recusant commonwealth, and to divert its influence into the federal coffers. Thus far the effort has been ineffectual. One of the latest attempts in this direction was the law of differential duties, which tendered the foreign merchant very important advantages as a reward for passing the port of Buenos Ayres, and proceeding directly to the Argentine ports; a law which took effect on the 1st of January last, and which has already inflicted serious damage upon the interests of Buenos Ayres. Still, neither the anticipation nor the realization of this evil, has cured the obstinacy of the outstanding province; and the new military coalition is an energetic measure to compel that submission, which no other less moderate policy can procure.

The accession of Brazil to this arrangement is easily accounted for. The appearance of the American fleet in the waters of the Plate opens a vista of mischief, which the Government of PEDRO II., with all its enlightenment, can only contemplate with dread. The policy of Brazil has long required the jealous exclusion of foreigners from the interior of the South American Continent. Hence the persistent embargo upon foreign navigation of the Amazon. Hence the veteran craving for the control of the valley of the Parana, exemplified long ago in its attempt to appropriate the Banda Oriental by virtue of arms, and more recently to secure the amicable subordination of the same Republic by virtue of diplomacy. Buenos Ayres has always been hostile to the Imperial pretensions; and to punish its opposition has been a treasured wish. With the sense of danger involved in the coming of the North Americans; in the possibility of important commercial concessions to be obtained by those enterprising people, opening to them the golden gates of what was once supposed to be the seat of the fabulous Dorado; and in the certainty that so formidable a display of naval and military strength must introduce a new and dangerous element into the riverine balance of power, the Brazilian Government has deemed it necessary to make some compensative demonstration, by way of neutralizing the North American influence. The tender of mediation between Commissioner BOWLIN and the Dictator of Paraguay was unquestionably the product of such apprehensions. Brazil is striking a bold blow for the maintenance and reinforcement of her influence with her Spanish-American neighbors; and in recognizing the intelligent administration of URQUIZA, and in directing her strength against that vexatious offender, Buenos Ayres, she is probably adopting the most effective measures. It remains to be seen what effect such measures will exert upon the prosperity of the American expedition.

A VERY REMARKABLE REVELATION.—The veteran Commodore STUART sent a letter to President BUCHANAN yesterday, as we learn from our Special Washington Correspondent, revealing the very remarkable fact that the flotilla of gunboats built by President JEFFERSON, for the ostensible purpose of guarding our line of sea-coast, were actually intended to be used in making a descent upon Cuba, with the purpose of conquering that long-coveted island and annexing it to the Union. They were a branch of more grandiose views even, partly for this purpose, but the change which must also occurred in the relations between the United States and Great Britain caused the project to be abandoned.

The precedent set by Mr. JEFFERSON, it is hinted, will be followed by Mr. BUCHANAN if our Minister at Madrid should fail in his attempts to effect a negotiation for the purchase of Cuba. Perhaps that was the use to which Mr. BUCHANAN intended to apply the thirty million appropriation, if the Congress had been weak enough to intrust him with it. How Commodore STUART obtained his information it is not stated; but, as he was then in the Navy, it might have been confidentially imparted to him by Mr. JEFFERSON. It is very remarkable, however, that it should now be divulged for the first time after a lapse of fifty years.

Borrowing Trouble.

There is an old story of a highly-respectable lady who had acquired in early life an inveterate habit of looking under the bed before she "couched supine her beauties lily-white," in anxious expectation of finding there some monster in human form prepared to spoil the house and slay its inmates. After twenty years of conjugal peace she one night actually discovered the object of her long inquisition, and on communicating the horrible fact to her husband was by him congratulated on finding at last what she had been so long looking for. The panic and consequent crisis of 1857 must have been to our cotemporary of the Tribune what that crouching burglar was to this persevering dame.

The Tribune never will consent to be happy. It always will be ruined, and nobody shall save it. When clouds are in the sky the Tribune smiles, foreseeing a frightful tempest. When the blue heavens laugh with light the Tribune groans, portending secret volcanic throes, soon to break forth in universal dismay, disaster and destruction. Just at present the Tribune is bitterly exercised by the threatening prosperity which impends over the country. Things are brightening, the Tribune admits; but then this brightness is "precarious, if not delusive." And thereupon the Tribune marches up four legions of words, arranged under Roman numerals from I. to IV., for the express purpose of driving away the wicked traders who are swarming in upon us under the false impression that we have something to sell and that they have something to buy withal. That abominable vessel of wrath, credit, which has been the ark of our national success, is denounced afresh by the Tribune for "spreading its sails" and basely endeavoring to take advantage of the fair weather, in the face of the frightful backwardness which our people still display in taking hold upon those only pillows of salvation "the Sorghum and the Beet." We beg pardon of our readers for vexing them with this slight confusion of metaphors, but we are really only following the somewhat enthusiastical rhetoric of our much-prognosticating cotemporary.

The fact that Europe seems likely to withdraw from us those facilities for raising money abroad which have already involved so many of our best enterprises, in debts more discreditable than dangerous, seems to the terrified mind of the Tribune a particularly perilous circumstance in our present position. We have been well-nigh ruined by borrowing, says the Tribune, and therefore we shall be wholly ruined when borrowing becomes impossible. Could anything be plainer or more logical? Then, again, the Tribune is sure that we are near the "crack of doom," because "we scarcely hear of a new forge or factory as being erected," although all that actually exist are admitted to be in full operation with "a present active demand" for their products. Extravagant enterprise pushed beyond the wants of the country has lamed us dreadfully, and therefore enterprise exactly proportioned to the wants of the country will leave us not a leg to stand upon!

This is playing Smellfungus with a vengeance. We all know how fond our English cousins are of carrying umbrellas in a fine day for fear it might rain; and MONTAIGNE has somewhere quizzed the "fièvre et folie," the frantic foolishness of people who put on their fur coats at midsummer because it may freeze at Christmas; but we really think the present calamitous croaking of the Tribune is only to be paralleled by the lachrymose forethought of the young Irish lady who fell into tears before the kitchen fire with the thought that if she should ever by a happy chance be married, and become a mother, the child of her affections might casually tumble into the oven and be roasted alive.

Wharves and Wharfage.

The wharf-owners of this City and Brooklyn are urging the Legislature to pass a law doubling the rates of wharfage now established, and adding some new charges for the modern appliances used in loading and discharging cargoes. Their application is of course opposed with great vehemence by the ship-owners and shipping merchants of the City; and the question promises to take up not a little time and thought at Albany. It has sufficient public importance to deserve very grave and serious consideration, without reference to the wants and wishes of one or another class of those who are fighting their small battles over it in the lobby or on the floor of either House.

That the present condition of our wharves is deplorable in itself, disgraceful to the civilization of New-York, and really dangerous to our commerce, is unfortunately beyond a doubt. The Senate Committee at Albany, in their majority report, favor the petition of the wharf-owners, on the very reasonable ground that the present rates of income from that species of property are so low as to make it impossible for the owners to keep the slips and docks in proper repair. As compared with the wharfage revenues of other cities, those of the New-York wharf-owners are indeed shamefully out of proportion to the taxes which are levied upon them. The rates of wharfage remain what they were in 1801. The taxes are what fifty years of constant and vivacious advance have made them; nor can any man easily foretell what they will soon become. The additional rates now asked for would impose upon our producers and shippers an additional expense of some four hundred thousand dollars per annum in the whole—an increase of which the effect, when distributed over the vast surface of our commercial movements, must be so slight as to be scarcely perceptible. If we are to leave our wharves in the hands which now hold them, and retain our authority to regulate the incomes arising from their use, it is very plain that the measure now pressed upon the Legislature is one of simple and most scanty justice. If accompanied with proper provisions for securing the maintenance in good condition of the wharves and their adjuncts, it must produce decidedly beneficial results to all parties concerned, and save to the shippers and producers, in the form of increased accommodations and greater security for their property, much more than it will take from them in the shape of dues to the owners of wharves.

But the occasion is timely for asking whether our whole wharf system is not really most illogical and antiquated; inconsistent alike with the principles of sound law and the practical requirements of commerce?

Our wharf-owners are not holders in fee simple, and upon this basis alone, we suppose, rests the claim of the State to decide what rents they shall receive for the conveniences they furnish to commerce. Is that basis sound and sufficient? or do we not need a thorough revision of our laws on this subject? The wharves of a city like New-York are, to all intents and purposes, streets along the water. There is no more reason for leaving the ownership of our wharves, with all its advantages and all its burdens, in the possession of private individuals, than for vesting the control of Broadway or Union-place in a few gentlemen, with the right of exacting tolls, to be fixed by law, for the use thereof. If it be said that our wharves are in the nature of warehouses, then it is difficult to see what better right the State has to fix the rental of the one than to fix the rental of the other.

The theory and practice of wharf-ownership among us is indeed a last remnant of the ancient turnpike absurdity. One of two things it becomes us to do: either to leave wharf owners perfectly free to make their own bargains with those who wish the use of their property, or to make just compensation to those who hold that species of property, and take the whole of it, with its regulations, its repairs, and all its responsibilities, into the keeping of the Commonwealth or of the City.

The Post and Mr. Sickles.

The Evening Post is becoming Pharisaical in its malignity. It reads the editor of the Philadelphia Press the following very complacent and impressive lesson on the perils that environ the man who dares to say a word for a friend in trouble:

THE PHILADELPHIA PRESS.—This journal, which has hitherto maintained a high and respectable character, has entered upon a systematic defiance of the character and career of Mr. DANIEL E. SICKLES. It is probable that the Editor of it is ignorant of what he has undertaken; if he is, he ought to be warned by some prudent friend of the dangerous declivity on which he stands; but if he is not, it will be necessary to characterize his efforts as they deserve. Mr. SICKLES, unfortunately, is well known in this community, and, as one journalist, at least, has already had reason to feel, it is not a wise thing to become his apologist or champion.

The Post's menaces may possibly have terror out of town:—but we trust the Press will not attach any undue importance to the fearful example of the "journalist" thus held up as an awful warning. The Post has been trying with laudable industry for the last week to cool its wounds by just such small puffs of itself as this. Like the Duke of BARGOSS, whom Junius impaled, it sits down "infamous and contented;"—but it fails to impress the public at large with any marked sense of its own comfort. It may be very happy,—but it don't act as if it were.

Mr. SICKLES is in prison—his home a ruin, his family scattered, his future blighted, himself awaiting trial for his life. An enemy of ordinary impulses would naturally suspend his hatred in such circumstances, and leave to the law and to "society" the coveted luxury of revenge. The Post is not sufficiently philosophical for so slow a gratification of its malice. It eagerly seizes the occasion for venting its hate, embittered instead of softened by the misfortunes of its object, and now descends to the imbecile baseness of menacing those who will not imitate its cowardly injustice. Its pompous threats are too ridiculous to disturb any sensible man's digestion; but the impulse that prompts them is not therefore the less contemptible.

We have no possible motive for defending Mr. SICKLES—not even that of political sympathy or of personal and social intimacy—from anything that his bitterest enemy may say—except that which springs from a sense of justice and fair-play; but this has impelled us more than once to protest, in the name of public decency, against the brutal defamations in which the Post has steadily indulged since his killing of his wife's seducer. The statements of that journal concerning the personal character and social position of Mr. SICKLES rest, so far as the public has yet been informed, entirely upon its own irresponsible authority. If the evidence of our senses is worth anything, we know its assertion that he has long been "excluded from respectable society in New-York" to be scandalously false; and if it were proper to use private names in any public connection we could mention scores of gentlemen conspicuous for position, character and public services, in whose homes Mr. SICKLES has been a welcome guest. And we never yet met the man who could say, as of his own knowledge, that since his assumption of the duties of married life Mr. SICKLES had been guilty of any of the sins which the Post so freely lays to his charge. The statement that in his conversation he is accustomed to boast of his profligacy, we believe to be especially and maliciously false. Mr. SICKLES is a man of habitually cold temperament, fastidiously polite in his manners, a martinet in the proprieties of social intercourse, and far too much absorbed in his projects of political ambition to have either inclination or leisure for the pursuits of a profligate. For the last six or eight years there has not been a harder-working man in this City than Mr. SICKLES, and it would be a miracle to find such a man devoted to the passions and pleasures to which the Post represents him as being surrendered. The Post knows perfectly well that men upon whose standing it dare not cast any imputation, are not ashamed to confess themselves the intimate friends of Mr. SICKLES, and to assert for him of their own knowledge a character exactly the opposite of that which the Post assigns him.

If the Post finds special pleasure in venting upon Mr. SICKLES, during his imprisonment and in his affliction, the accumulated wrath of long and virulent political differences, it will probably continue to indulge itself in that luxury. Whether it does or does not, has now become a matter of very little consequence to anybody but itself. It is quite welcome to this self-indulgence, but it cannot be permitted to go further, and fling foolish threats of its frightful displeasure at people who neither share its private resentments, sympathize with its prurient tastes, nor accept its cold-blooded code of political warfare.

THE WEEKLY PRESS.—The Saturday Press has a striking poem this week by STODDARD, besides a variety of sharp, spicy and telling literary matter. The Press is the oblest of the literary weeklies—and almost the only one which possesses any very salient peculiarities of character and tone. It is a little too crochety, thinks (or talks) a trifle too much of its own merits, and wastes some valuable space by filling it with heavy matter. But what is left, after these deductions, is exceedingly good.

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

MEETING OF COMMON COUNCIL.—[illegible] Room No. 32, Cooper Institute, to [illegible] passage of the ordinance to prevent [illegible] of gas; Mr. C. Vanderbilt, President of the Board of Aldermen, and Gen. C. Flanagan, Secretary. Several gentlemen made earnest speeches, endeavoring that the ordinance of the Common Council should not be [illegible]. They might as well undertake, they said, to make fence-stakes carry around stalks to which each horse they sold, as today do public deed-takers which each [illegible] they delivered all the days of the buyer. Others were highly indignant at the bench and were [illegible] by supposing they were dishonest. Mr. [illegible] was in favor of enacting harsh laws to the [illegible] who wanted to endanger each [illegible] money. For one he would not lower his dignity enough to remonstrate against the passage of the law. After it was passed, the [illegible] of the thought, should [illegible] one of their members, who was [illegible] Mr. ARMSTRONG believed Mr. MOORE's [illegible] he would fight the law until the last [illegible]. Mr. PRESCOTT said that the resolution was [illegible] in the Aldermanic last evening, and that had it not been for the efforts of Alderman ARMSTRONG it would have been immediately passed. Mr. P. further said that [illegible] two of the Aldermen, whose names he gave [illegible] "indemnified," the ordinance would be [illegible] next meeting. As this fact was announced there [illegible] low whispers of "where the price, Prescott?" [illegible] Mr. P. had [illegible] he was a gentleman [illegible] him what he meant by "indemnified" whether he intended to say "bought?" He replied that he spoke as dealers generally do, but meant "indemnified" accurately. Further than this, Alderman ARMSTRONG [illegible] that the resolution [illegible] around a pair of snuffards were his part, and [illegible] the ordinance [illegible] Mr. Moore thought it advisable to [illegible] the ordinance as transmitted. He desired to [illegible] mon Council as "insane"—the majority of [illegible] least. The motion to prepare a protest was [illegible] and carried. Messrs. OSBORN, ARMSTRONG and [illegible] were appointed a Committee to prepare it. [illegible] case of Alderman ARMSTRONG was taken, to give him an opportunity of getting it ready for immediate signing. Mr. PRESCOTT stated, as the gentlemen were leaving the room, that the Mayor had told him he would not sign such a law as that proposed—because, in his opinion, the Common Council might as well pass an ordinance obliging every milkman to drive his cows to the doors of his customers, and milk them there, in order to satisfy each one that he was giving him pure milk. After the receipt of the Committee's protest, remonstrance, which, after consideration, was adopted.

PREPARATIONS FOR ST. PATRICK'S DAY.—The Delegates of the various Hibernian Societies met at No. 42 Prince-street, last evening, to perfect the arrangements for the celebration of the natal day of Ireland's patron saint. Mr. HUGH O'BRIEN was in the chair, and Mr. JAS. O'COMMON FAHY acted as Secretary. The names of the Marshals of the different associations which propose to join in the celebration of the day were announced. The following Societies will constitute the procession: The Ancient Order of Hibernians of New-York City, the Emerald Guard, the Sarsfield Guard, the Independent Guard, the Sons of '98, the Deignan Guard, the Father Matthew, T. A. B. Society, the Benevolent Society of United Sons of Erin, the Kings County Volunteers, the Hibernian Benevolent Society, the Irish American Benevolent Society, the Longshoreman's Union Benevolent Society, the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Long Island, the Quarrymen's Union Protective Society, the St. Joseph R. C. T. A. B. Society, the Old Guard, the Harp Benevolent Society, and the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Melrose and Morrisania. The line will be formed in the morning with the right resting on East Broadway and Grand-street, and the procession will march through East Broadway and Chatham-street to the Park, where it will be reviewed by the Mayor and Common Council, thence through Broadway, Fourteenth-street, Seventh-avenue, Twenty-third-street, and Broadway again to Union-square, where after passing around the statue of WASHINGTON, it will be dismissed. It is expected that the turnout will be unusually large.

MEETING OF THE SANITARY ASSOCIATION.—The Sanitary Association continue its weekly meetings at No. 23 Cooper Institute. Tuesday evening Gen. FRED E. MATHER presided. On motion of Dr. GAMGEE, it was resolved to appoint a Committee of five to represent the Association at the proposed meeting in April of the United States Sanitary and Quarantine Association. A discussion, chiefly upon the condition of tenant-houses, followed. Dr. J. F. FRAZER thought that the filthy state of many of these places had grown in Season on the general sanitary condition of the City. Dr. GAMGEE concurred with Dr. FRAZER. He said, moreover, that a census taken by the Police showed that there were 207,000 people in these houses. Notwithstanding this, he was [illegible] in more due to want of [illegible] that to their being [illegible] in proportion to their size than these houses do. He suggested that it would be well to urge the necessity of the class of people who occupy these buildings resulting out of the City to a greater extent. The time occupied in going to and fro is of course an objection, but the increased facilities for travel are removing this obstacle. Dr. HOSACK also called attention to the necessity of guarding against adulterations in food. While [illegible] causes so apparent which operate prejudicially to health, there are some forgot others which are not relatively [illegible]. Finally, Dr. [illegible] and Dr. [illegible] were appointed a committee to inquire into the general condition of tenant houses in the City, and the Association adjourned.

PRIZE-FIGHTS INTERFERING.—According to the sporting papers there are more prize-fights to come off during the next few months. HEENAN, "the Benicia Boy," has returned from his Southern [illegible] and feels in so good trim that he thinks he [illegible] qualified to meet any one on either side of water. TOM SAYERS, the English champion, [illegible] said, has too many fights on hand now to [illegible] more challenges at present, as HEENAN is [illegible] meet any one who is ready to come up to the "Bull." As he cannot spend the necessary years in England to vindicate his claim to the champion's belt, should he be successful in gaining possession of it, he will be confronted with hosts [illegible] the fight. He is ready to stake any man $2,500, and his friends are ready to back him. MACEY, the renowned champion of the "weights," arrived here a few days since in the packet ship Southampton. As his friends say, his only object is to give exhibitions to the "[illegible]." Since 1848 he has been frequently in the ring last season being with Harry Harrison, when the stakes were divided after an encounter had been fought in one hour and fifty-two minutes. Every one knows what these characters are, declaring that their intentions are peaceful; but from present appearances, it is highly probable there will soon be occasion for testing the [illegible] of the law against prize-fighting.

AN AGED WOMAN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT BY HER SON.—Word was brought to the Station-house at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon that a young man named WM. C. CARROLL had shot his mother at her residence, No. 276 Houston-street. Captain HAYES and Officer McCOMBS repaired to the house, where they found Mrs. CARROLL, an aged lady, who had been shot with a single bullet in the hands of her son. The ball struck her right shoulder-blade, and passed through the breast, inflicting a mortal wound, it is feared, to prove fatal. Capt. HAYES arrived at the house, who is a commercial traveler for a [illegible] and he expressed the profoundest sorrow for the event, and said he was [illegible] when the pistol accidentally exploded. Coroner JOHNSON was notified, and took Mrs. CARROLL's [illegible] As it was certain that the shooting was [illegible] young CARROLL was released.

INTERFERING WITH LOVERS ON SATURDAY.—Yesterday morning, Dr. [illegible], while walking through Hudson-street, came upon a man named HUGHES, [illegible] a hand-cart loaded with hams, which were [illegible] wait for food. Meanwhile, in compliance with the urgent invitation, made a call on the Mayor, to whom he stated that he bought the hams for 8½ cents a pound, and that he designed selling the [illegible] low shoulders and the hams to the poorer [illegible] burgers. The Mayor ordered him to see whether he could find a market for his hams, directing Officer McLEAN to take charge of them in the meantime.

FIRE IN HUDSON-STREET AND HOUSE OF CORRECTION.—About 6¾ o'clock, last evening, a fire occurred in the dwelling-house, No. 301 Hudson-street. It appears that there was a leakage of gas in one upper room, and one of the family entering with a light, an explosion followed which smashed the windows and set fire to the premises. The firemen extinguished the flames. Damage about $150; fully insured. Three small children were asleep in the room in which the fire took place, and would have been suffocated, but for the exertions of Officer LYONS of the Eighth Precinct, who bravely risked his own life to save the children.

INGENIOUS BURGLARY.—The dwelling-house of Mr. ALBERT WEEKS, No. 40 St. Marks-place, was entered by burglars about 4½ o'clock on Thursday morning, and robbed in money, silver ware, jewelry and clothing to the amount of over $300. The front door was entered by shoving out from hinge, and the robbers escaped with their booty at the basement door. They entered the sleeping-room of Mr. WEEKS, and taking all his clothes down into the basement, rifled and left them upon the floor.

HE CALLS ME FATHER.

She calls me "Father!" through my ear
That thrilling name she never hears,
Yet to my heart affection brings
The sound in sweet imaginings;
I feel its gushing music roll
The stream of rapture on my soul;
And when she turns to welcome me,
And when upon my knee to my knee,
And when she climbs to my knee
My bosom for a hiding place,
And when she smiling clasps my neck,
And with her arms my neck encircles,
And when her lips of roses seek
To press their sweetness on my cheek,
Or when, upon my breast, she nestled,
I fall her to her church rest,
The heart to which I hold my dove
Swells with unutterable love.

MARCH.

Hail blustery March! The sun and lark,
Though rough they kiss, yet feel it thrilling,
In verbal food through ear and blood,
And lo! their gum-sealed buds are filling!
As melt the snows, the crocus blows,
The squirrel leaps through sporting branches;
Old Winter wears a sigh for fortune,
And Spring's young hounds tell at his haunches.

Oh, month whose breath requires a sheath
On all the buds of tenderer promise,
Though keen and blind, thy dusty wind,
At least thou's ta'en old Winter from us!
Soon shall be seen, in dimpled green,
The earth from frosty chains emerging,
And Summer's breeze will fan the trees
With clouds of new-blown blossoms surging!

To thee we owe this healthy glow
Which stirs the blood with vernal vigor;
And rightly direct—pants, coat and vest—
We've little cause to feel thy rigor!
All these we find—good taste combined
With cheapness that outstrips all others—
All those three stores, whose golden doors
Fly open at the name—SMITH BROTHERS!

KEROSENE OILS.

CAUTION.

In consequence of the continual efforts made by the manufacturers of dark-colored, strong-smelling and smoky coal oils to deceive the public by calling their oils "Kerosene," it has become necessary to notify consumers that they ought to crack from the dealer a gushy, only that he is selling the genuine oil. Case. Also, should be taken to avoid the numerous spurious compounds, of camphene and resin oil offered in the market as COAL OIL or KEROSENE, by interested parties, for the purpose of damaging the sale of KEROSENE, which has, of late, taken the place of the many dangerous fluids, heretofore in general use. Purchasers who have bought oil which they suspect to be a counterfeit of KEROSENE, will confer a favor by leaving a sample at the office of the Company, with the address of the seller, and if found to be an imitation, a suit will be commenced for the illegal use of the word KEROSENE, the trade mark of the KEROSENE OIL CO., No. 80 Beaver-st., N.
